Food Security Situation

- Food for Peace has been mobilizing all available resources to bring urgently needed food assistance to those affected by the devastating 7.0 magnitude earthquake which has caused massive death and destruction.
- The prices of major food staples have remained relatively stable in Port-au-Prince markets at around 5-25% higher than pre-earthquake price levels.
- Extreme poverty, social instability, and recurring natural disasters combine to make Haiti one of the poorest countries in the world.
- Hurricanes and tropical storms proved especially devastating in 2008, and their impact has lingered.
